

You Did Me A Favor

© 2021 Matthieu Brandt

I met you at the bottom of a bottle
My self respect was at an all time low
You walked out of a dog eared dead-end novel
Into a life, you figured you were owed

It started out like any other romance
Soon I had a bullseye on my back
I was bending over backwards for a fair chance
You never cut me any slack

My anger burning deep inside
It all became a downhill slide

So you did me a favor when you left
I felt like a slave from the day we met
As I sobered up on you,
You tore the last shirt off my back
It was worth every nickel that I had
You did me a favor when you left

The money that I made you said was 'chump change'
In bed you kept me staring at your back
High on the hog, you're always going places
Blaming me for when you got off-track

Love is cheap when someone else is buying
Up a creek, I kept paying through the nose
The face that once glowed, had turned hard and cold
A smiler with a knife you cut the joy out of my life

You wallowed in self pity, whining like a wus
Your mood swings like a monkey on a rope
Cheating like a dog, I couldn't stand you anymore
Your lame excuses were a cruel joke

You damn' near stripped me of my pride
Can't build a love upon a lie

So you did me a favor when you left
I felt like a slave from the day we met
As I sobered up on you,
You tore the last shirt off my back
It was worth every nickel that I had
You did me a favor when you left
